NJPPSA Listserv Information- Did you know that a very important way of communicating with fellow members is by adding njppsa@yahogroups.com to your email contact list. In order to be involved in this list you have to be invited and more importantly, JOIN THE GROUP when invited. Our current membership is about 120 members. Only 70 have currently joined the Listserv. Tim would like to get this to 100%. He will be creating a list of members to contact about this process. If you would like to help him in this project please email Tim at tmack@turbocourier.com.

In the News

Workers blame ghost for courthouse antics

FLEMINGTON, New Jersey—Some who work in the Hunterdon County Courthouse in Flemington say the ghost of Bruno Hauptmann is flipping on the courthouse's lights each night. The peculiar happenings have been going on since renovations started months ago to make the courthouse look like it did in 1935, when Hauptmann was convicted there of kidnapping and killing the toddler son of Charles Lindbergh. "It's Hauptmann's ghost," county Administrator Cindy Yard told the Sunday Star-Ledger. But county architect Frank Bell says the courthouse's new electricity system is the likely culprit...Atlantic City Press

Is the Mailman Endangered?

For first-class mail, the United States still has just one postal service. Not so in places like New Zealand and Sweden, which have opened their mail systems to private companies. The latest is Britain, where the Royal Mail lost its 350-year monopoly. Regulators say the competition will improve the service. Japan is soon to follow. With the rise in U.S. stamp prices, expect calls for privatization here. Source...by Lyric Wallwork Winik

Mt. Laurel land-grab suit goes to top state court

MOUNT LAUREL, New Jersey--Developers across the country are keeping tabs on a lawsuit going before the New Jersey Supreme Court, in which a homebuilder is suing over a township seizing his land to preserve open space. Developer Michael Procacci Jr. had been planning to build 23 homes on his 16 acres in Mount Laurel before the township used its eminent domain powers to take it. An appellate panel sided with Mount Laurel last year and Procacci appealed to the states highest court. "It is definitely a case to watch closely," Princeton lawyer Bill Potter, who formed the Coalition to Stop Eminent Domain Abuse, told the Star-Ledger of Newark. Source...Atlantic City Press

The Legal Process Professional

Remember me? I am the Quarterly Newsletter of the New Jersey Professional Process Servers Association. I was printed and distributed to the membership and other Legal Industry Professional's to spread the good word about NJPPSA. Tim Mack is currently looking to outsource the Production, Printing, and Distribution of the Newsletter. This was discussed at the NJPPSA Quarterly Board Meeting in March. He has set a goal to have the Newsletter printed in the 3rd & 4th Quarters of this year. Please send him any commitments for Advertising by May 31st. In response you will receive a Cost list and Advertising Form. Send requests to tmack@turbocourier.com.
